Frequently Asked Questions

What happens when we pay?

Paying extends your current account expiration date, so all data is retained and you can continue using the same account with no restrictions.

How much does it cost?

Your subscription is based on the total number of employees entered and duration you choose. Please see our pricing page for pricing and duration options.

How is the total number of employees calculated?

When an employee is added into the account they are included in the total employees, if you delete an employee they will not be included in the count unless you restore them.

What if we need a higher employee level later?

You can add more employees at any time – if you exceed your paid level you will be prompted to upgrade by paying a prorated amount or moving up your expiration date.

What if our check will not arrive in time?

If the check will not arrive before the account expiration date, please contact billing@when2work.com and send the check number and the date it was mailed and we will be happy to provide access while the check is in transit.

What if we are a seasonal company?

If you email billing@when2work.com with your account number we will be sure your data is saved during your off season. Also if your employee levels vary greatly throughout the year we may be able to provide a special seasonal subscription.

What if we pay monthly and want to cancel?

Auto renewal is an option and can be canceled at any time before the expiration date to stop the next renewal.

Can we get a refund?

No refunds are given for unused portions of paid subscriptions.
